

“GARDENING IN A CHANGING CLIMATE”

It was the evening of March 2, 2024. I'd just heard the first of the Canada Geese flying above the house. It seemed a bit early. But everything having to do with the changing of seasons seemed early this year, more so than the last couple of years. By early March there was no snow cover on the ground.

Gardening in a changing climate will test our ability to adapt, understand and build resilience in our growing areas. In this presentation, we will explore some of the ways in which native plants are integral to ecological well-being now and in the future.
